MEZZANINE

A mezzanine, is an intermediate floor in a building which is partly open to the double-height ceilinged floor below, or which does not extend over the whole floor-space of the building. However, the term is often used loosely for the floor above the ground floor, especially where a very high original ground floor has been split horizontally into two floors.

Mezzanines may serve a wide variety of functions. Industrial mezzanines, such as those used in warehouses, may be temporary or semi-permanent structures.
